

Talkestra is a group of professional musicians – under the direction of Steve Dummer - which was formed in 1998 with the help of a National Lottery ‘Arts for Everyone’ grant. They don’t just play the music - they talk about it!

And they don’t just talk about it - they take it apart to show you how it works and put it back together to show you how it sounds. Talkestra concerts combine a uniquely friendly and unstuffy atmosphere with top quality performances.

They have made a real impact in attracting new audiences to the concert hall and also proved to be of enormous interest to the regular concert-goer.
